Bye Bye Chappy Jarvis
This week is Chappy Jarvis’ last week at Bundaberg Central State School. He will be greatly missed by students and staff. His work at Bundaberg Central has been calming and supportive of all students and sometimes, staff. We wish him well in his future position up north. Thursday at first break we will have a ‘going away morning tea’ for Chappy Jarvis. Your donation of a small plate of food would be much appreciated. The school will be providing a cake and fruit. Let us know if you are able to send something in for catering purposes. Thanks.

Fantastic News
Education Qld is supporting Bundaberg Central State School by allocating an extra $4,000 for behaviour support and to re-invigorate the positive environment at the school. There will be an alternate program with activities to support students in the classroom and in the playground. New skills will be learnt along with fun activities. Additional support personnel will be employed to run some of the alternate programs. Bundy Central is a fantastic school and we aim to make a safe and positive learning environment where students are excited to be learning everyday. They are learning where they are to sit and when they can go to the toilet and get a drink. These simple procedures are taught so that students are aware of the correct behaviour and what is expected of them in the outdoor areas. It is also for their safety. Walking on concrete and sitting while eating is part of being safe. Thank you to all students who showed that they are doing the right thing at first and second break today. They were being safe and responsible. Please talk to your children about the need to be safe and responsible when out of the class. Reinforce that the food you give them is for them and not to be shared with other students. Thank you.

Kind regards,
Marie Hillyard
